"...but the minute I was alone
I knew I was going to cry my eyes out.
I slid to the floor in my nightgown and began by saying my prayers,
very fervently.
Then I drew my knees to my chest,
lay my head on my arms and cried,
all huddled up on the bare floor.
A loud sob brought me back down to earth."
— Anne Frank

First Person

First-person narrative is a writing style where a story is narrated by one character at a time, speaking from their perspective.

The narrators refer to themselves using words and phrases involving "I" (referred to as the first-person singular) and/or "we" (the first-person plural). It is generally a more personal way of writing.

Examples:

"I want to break free!" - Queen

"Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered weak and weary,
over many a quaint and curious
volume of forgotten lore,
while I nodded, nearly napping,
suddenly there came a tapping,
as of some one gently rapping,
rapping at my chamber door."
- Edgar Allan Poe
